Our thanks go to our colleagues at the VU University Medical Center and to those in other hospitals who referred their patients to us. We are indebted to them, we can say that much of what was said there still holds. At the same time, however, much has changed.

There has been immense progress in the technical possibilities of magnetic resonance and in the knowledge of genetic defects, biochemical abnormalities, and cellular processes underlying myelin disorders. Two colleagues were particularly helpful: our friends Susan Blaser, from the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, and Zoltan Patay, from the King Faisal Hospital in Riyadh. This immense progress has prompted us to embark upon the enormous task of rewriting the previous edition and adding 40 chapters. In doing so we have tried to cover most white matter disorders, hereditary and acquired, and to present a collection of high quality images and illustrations to the fullest possible extent. The contributions of these people are mentioned separately in the acknowledgements.
